carvin x60a manual

Its simple, I play 14 years with the original ones and I see no reason to change them. A friend who has opened for a loose connection to admire the work United States made in the hand, large components very rustic it is strong. However the amp does not rev high. Possibility to further accentuate the brightness by dragging the volume knob clear. The sounds are divine even with the amps sduit latest issue of friends, I always came back to Carvin It always takes the Decision in RP and in concert, when the volume gives the texture in short, a serious slap. I never play beyond 2. To saturate the channel, you really have to force the station and ears.CONTRL notes by the distance to the HP and rolls alone. SOUNDS As Describes that good. Trs always brilliant. With a stratovolcano, the registry is easy Knopfler. But then I put a compressor because of the extreme dynamics of this channel. With distortion no added effect. It takes a certain amount to blackmail the channel. I always have great success with the saturation of the Carvin. A grain plutt Mesa modern genre. And the most thunderous, is the total lack of breath APRS 15 years. I think that was just the quality of Groove Tubes. OVERALL OPINION 15 years of use APRS amateur, I do not play as often as a I am Fidler at X60. This amp is an enigma a product as successful, such a reasonable price bought used 3000F stayed only two or three years in the catalog! Its a 60 Watt studio combo with enough power to play medium sized clubs. This amp makes an excellent pedal platform. Complete with foot switch to run both channels and effects loop. Also has headphone jack. EQ system is active, boost and cut. You wont find a cleaner example of this amp anywhere you look. Items must be returned in original, asshipped condition with all original packaging.Please check the fields highlighted in red.Currency. X100 and X60 models. Also X100B and X60B. no other models. This kit boosts the overdrive about 50 times,All features, channel switching, effects loop, toneInstallation is changing and adding some parts to the printed circuit board. It is not necessary to remove the board to do the mods and, in general, the modification is fairly easy to do with some really big results This mod is for the old amps, from the late 70s, 80s not for the current reissue.Torres Engineering 2018. Check the latest browser version Does anyone have any experience with these amps in particular either the X60a or X60b. I want to keep a really good clean tone like my Fender but get a good OD no metal, really, more just rock and blues. How does the clean on the Carvin compare to the HRD. For guitars I use an Ovation Preacher, MIM Tele and Ibanez AS73. Pedals GFS Tuner, MXR DynaComp, Fulltone Fulldrive Mosfet 2, Fulltone Ultimate Octave, EHX Small Stone RI and MXR Carbon Copy. Ive actually recd those a couple times in the last day or so. Amazing clean channel I prefer to fender but Im biased. They go for dirt cheap too and actually have nice gain channels unlike the Hot Rods. Frank Zappa was one of the big names to use that amp. Thanks for the opinions, guys. Should I take it There's a few people who have replied to the seller's ad but he said first person to get to him at a certain time with the cash gets it. Do I jump on it Why or why not I was a big fan of my old XV212 x100b combo, Twin Reverberesque on the rhythm channel and JCM800 on the lead channel. BUT I found it useless as a channel switcher because you could dial in the shared tone stack, shared presence and shared reverb to suit both channels at once so I used one channel or the other. The one thing I need is something gigworthy but that I can get my cash back out of if I need to. I haven't seen enough 60Watters to know a price and even then I would be out of date. There were about three generations of X amp from the early 80s to the early 90s. Mine was the earliest model that shipped with 6L6GCs, I honestly believe it's the most balanced sounding version. They switched to stock EL34s and that fuzzy carpet covering but I believe they both could use either tube, the last generation tried to go high gain without adding another gain stage and IMHO, it came out buzzy and bad sounding. Everyone has their favorite generation, so the resale market may be splintered into different camps. I can say it should be a roadworthy piece of kit depending on current condition, easily as solid as a Peavey Classic and more solid than Crate VC. But I can also say you seem just doubtful enough, I would skip it until you feel more comfortable with something. Now I'm just picturing some of my local Craigslist hawks buzzards trying to muscle in and offer more. Definitely don't need the stress and no amp is worth it, especially an odd bird like a Carvin wannabe Boogie. I was anti-Marshall when I was young and it was a big mistake. They are okay amps when you consider what else was out at the time and you can't beat the build quality. My dirty little secret on the cheap is the Vox Tonelab LE modeler for killer tones, but it still needs to go into a tube amp that pops.

Those Carvins just never made the notes pop. Ads or Articles, Same Package, FREE SHIPPING when purchasing more than one item. Gifts, collecting, archiving and historical reference. 03323 For sale is my old Bedrock 600 Series 651 1x12 tube tweed combo amp. It's a 50 watt quad EL84 amp and it smokes. It's also pretty compact as 1x12s go. Which I dig. The clean channel is the best part. IMO. fat and creamy with good headroom. The gain channel is pretty robust. The amp is super tweakable with the EQ and EQ switches. The reverb is pretty sweet as well, dark and lush, definitely a different flavor than a Fender. The amp has basically new EH EL84s and it was recapped about a year ago. It's all original otherwise. And the Bedrock speaker is great. It was a studio flavor amp, but I've just picked up a few other heads and I'm running out of room so this one needs to find a new home. Email with questions. Boss, MXR, Dunlop, Maxon, EMMA, Visual Sound, many many more here the link to my eBay. Authorized Dealer, Full Factory Warranty. For the player who can't afford a real or reissue tweed amp. Well ver The DualTone's linkable channels each sport volume and tone controls as well as a shared tremolo circuit. This clever topology lets you hit the power amp as hard as necessary and even allows "channel switching" in its purest form. The 1964 reissue Supro DualTone's vintage correct. Lightweight cabinet—combined with our breathtaking custom 12" Supro speaker—kicks out surprisingly plump low end with all the detailed midrange and high end articulation that defines the Supro tone players have been chasing for decades. Loud enough to gig with a band, yet easy to haul around town, the Supro DualTone is the perfect small club and recording amplifier. This amp has the long lost tone, so Ramble On down to a Supro dealer near you and Bring It on Home. We Strive for 5 Star Customer Service. Gordon LaSalle Music 9785371200 It would be in like new condition if it wasnt for a tiny ding. As you can see by the faceplate. Apparently the effects are produced by an oilcan method that was invented by the founder of Tel Rey and is produced a very sought after tone. This guitar amp has a very clean sound thats reminiscent of a Roland JC120 and takes effect pedals really well. Shipping to the lower 48 states only. On Apr0313 at 112209 PDT. Seller added the following information I have received more information on this amp and this does not have builtin oilcan effects. Tel Rey made another supernova model that had a room effect which was oilcan based. This amp just has reverb and tremolo produced in the standard fashion. Both effects work and sound great to my ears. The tremolo can get pretty intense. Also. I failed to mention that 3 of the shiny metal discs on the knobs are missing although all the knobs are still there. The switchable clean to overdrive is a great feature. I installed Fender tiltback legs to hear it better on stage with loud band mates. It was supposed to be fully working but the amp was dead as well. This very crooked seller then sent me a replacement identical amp.it too was dead.live and learn. But I wanted this amp for gigs because.I found one speaker had a big hole from the poke and the other, a small hole. I easily repaired the small hole with a bit of flexible adhesive. I bought 1960s vintage style grill cloth and replaced the damaged cloth. Then I found a near new, perfect FM100H amp head only on Ebay and mounted it into the cabinet. All done, it sounds and looks excellent. The vintage look and sound made this excellent on stage. I played a lot of Buddy Hilly and Chuck Berry leads clear as a bell through this amp. Im only selling I used it for a Line 6 combo amp but check your amps dimensions to insure it will fit. IF your amp is smaller you can always add a little foam and fit it correctly. This is a VERY COOL GREEN used Road case.

I bought it from Craig Montoya the Bassist for Everclear. They used it on the road for a while. I never toured with it. It is used with some scratches to the surface from normal use nothing major or dents. Couple of stickers that I will get off the best I can before shipping. This is a very Heavy Duty custom case but I cannot find a manufacture for unfortunately. Not case edge. more Please email with any questions you have before bidding. Included a speaker upgrade Celestion 30 speaker A D2F cover. I have the original speaker kept safely in a box and its available if the buyer wants it. Contact me to make arrangements regarding the original not currently installed speaker. The speaker upgrade was done by a professional amp tech. I bought it, demod it and then kept it in my clothing closet with the cover on. So it hasnt seen more than 12 hours playing time. Its a great amp. I have seen rockers and Jazzers get wonderful tone and plenty of volume from this model. I am not an Amp tech so I dont know that I can answer many technical questions about the amp, but I will do my best otherwise. Payment is expected within 24 hours of purchase. I will ship only to a confirmed paypal address. Other locations are higher. USA and CAN only unless you contact me for mutually agreed upon terms before bidding. Item sold as is no returns. Email. Thanks for looking Posted with eBay Mobile Just an update. The back panel has a small dent.

This absolutely. Does not affect. The amp in anyway. Everything works flawlessly. Just thought I should point it out Not sure of the exact year of manufacture however it has been completely retubed with 2 EL 84 Groove Tubes and all new preamp Groove Tubes and sounds amazing. I have used it to record with and ready to scale back my collection. No shipping outside continental U.S. Any questions please message me. Thanks and happy bidding. Posted with the The Dual Reverb range was designed for versatility with two independently controlled foot switchable channels. Each voiced totally differently. Channel A is voiced for brilliant clean tones with the gain control on lower settings and crunch to lower gain lead as you turn it up. Channel B is boosted with enough gain, for fearsome lead tones, ranging from classic on lower settings to contemporary screaming solos on maximum. The tubes are were just replaced. The speaker is a WGS ET65. The amp is in good condition and sounds awesome. Only reason I am selling is because I just bought a new smaller amp that fits all my needs. If you are looking at this you probably know what you're looking at or a variation thereof. It is indeed ultra rare. It's a unicorn among great vintage amps. The Hilight era of amps were the best built handsdown. Built to military specifications. This was a Hiwatt favorite, by many great artists. Based on the DR 103 chassis. This model has the original features of vibrato and reverb circuitry. This model is also fitted with a line level output to further drive other amplifiers. It's a superb sounding amp. It loves pedals and it has a wonderful. more voice. This amplifier is very loud. These were built custom 100 watt tube combos, unlike the 50w halfling brothers today. Hiwatts were built to equally support basses. I believe the reverb tank was removed before my ownership the plug and wiring seem to be intact and the additional vibrato is out of this world Its built like a tank.

Its heavy around 100 pounds. It has wheels on it to help move it around. It has been in storage for many years. Though being industrially built 40 years ago. This amp is sold as it is. I have never taken it apart and it was last serviced, for a clean bill of health 6 years ago. It's a true piece of musical history that will certainly appreciate in value with time. Its presently on sale in a local store and I reserve the right to end this auction early. Powered and ready to go. Shipping may be more or less
